DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 16 recites "...first color model comprises a RGB color model."

Claim 17 recites "...first color model comprises a YUV color model."

To facilitate examination of the application, examiner has assumed that the second color model comprises a YUV color model. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-3 and 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's Admitted Prior Art (AAPA) and further in view of Kim (US 6,078,686).

Regarding claims 1 and 15, AAPA discloses a circuit, comprising:

a plurality of gain amplifiers (102, 104 and 106 [fig. 1]), adapted to impart a gain to an associated plurality of color signals according to a first color model (RGB signals, [fig. 1]);
an adder, to combine said amplified color signals to provide one or more output signals (fig. 1, multiplexer 108); and

Kim discloses means (converter 100, fig. 1) for providing said one or more output signals (RGB) as one or more color signals according to a second color model (fig. 1, YUV). Therefore it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to use such converter in the circuit for signal processing of a conventional scanner as disclosed by AAPA.

Regarding claims 2 and 16, combination of AAPA and Kim discloses the apparatus of claim 15, wherein the first color model comprises a RGB color model (fig. 1 of AAPA and Kim).

Regarding claims 3 and 17, combination of AAPA and Kim discloses the apparatus of claim 15, wherein the second color model comprises a YUV color model (fig. 1 of Kim).

Claims 5, 8, 9, 10, 13 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's Admitted Prior Art (AAPA), and further in view of Cheng (US 6,052,147).

Regarding claims 5, 8, 10 and 13, AAPA discloses a circuit, comprising:
a plurality of sampling-amplified-offset devices (102, 104 and 106), to sample, amplify and compensate levels of an R charge signal, a G charge signal and a B charge signal, respectively, to obtain an R analog signal, a G analog signal and a B analog signal (fig. 1);

Cheng discloses a gain adder, adapted to multiply one or more of the R, G and B analog signals by a corresponding weighted value, and to add one or more of the R, G and B analog signals multiplied by the weighted values to obtain a summed analog signal; and AAPA discloses a multiplexer (108), to select one or more of the R analog signal, the G analog signal, the B analog signal or the summed analog signal as an output signal. Therefore it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to include a gain adder as disclosed by Cheng in a circuit disclosed by AAPA.

Regarding claims 9 and 14, AAPA discloses the circuit according to claim 5, wherein the multiplexer (108) selects the R, G or B analog signals and outputs a selected one to an analog-digital converter, which then converts the selected one into a digital signal (fig. 1).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 6, 7, 11 and 12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
